American Assault Boats Lost; Fired on by French Ships

Magic Story of "Lost Squadron" Told by Rescued Officer

With a United States Task Force, Casablanca, French Morocco, Nov. 15.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The tragic story of the "Lost Squadron"—four American assault boats which ran into French destroyer fire while they were searching for the Fedhala beach—was told today by Second Lieutenant Edward W. Hillman of New York City.

He and 71 other survivors were rescued by the French after the boats were riddled by the enemy's fire. The boats were sunk within one-half mile of safety, some about 100 miles from the beach.

We were supposed to land on the beaches of Fedhala," Hillman said, "but through error the assault boats headed toward Casablanca, 13 miles away where the French fleet was quartered."

It was not until we were in Casablanca harbor that we realized that the fire toward us was from French ships. We were headed toward the French fleet.

Two of our boats drew back. The other two had drawn near the beach in the darkness, and I thought was a United States destroyer.

I was in one. When the men in the other vessel, a foreign vessel, were shot back, we were Americans."

A burst of machine-gun fire from the destroyer, then 15 yards away, and the first boat was fatally wounded. Realizing that resistance was less against a destroyer, the boat stood up and threw up its hands—some even tearing off their shirts and waving them.

Surrender Ignored

The destroyer, perhaps thinking they were up to a trick, immediately opened fire with three shells.

Some men in the boat were killed by the shells and machine-gun bullets; then Sergeant Claudine of Memphis, Tenn., at the survivors over the side of the water.

The French kept on pumping shells into the boat until it sank. I was in the second boat, only yards behind the first, and we went to the third and fourth boats to get away. Then we too were shot and tried to escape by zig-zagging.

The destroyer was pouring machine-gun fire on us. A splinter took away the front of one of my toes, splitting two bones.

Air Full of Metal

"Another shell blew a leg off a coxswain."

"The air was full of metal. A second lieutenant jumped up to get the wheel. A moment later he got a machine-gun slug through a thigh."

"As I started to climb up for the wheel, a shell crossed my lap and blew up the motor. Burning oil spread over the boat so I gave the order for the men to go over the side. The destroyer picked us up."

The men in the first boat swam to the shore. Hundreds of French

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Japanese are taking punishing, costly defeats at the farthest fingerholds of their zone of conquest. Both in the Solomons and on and around New Guinea they are paying dearly for desperate efforts to check the turning of the tide. General MacArthur's reports leave little doubt that their ill-starred adventure on the Papan peninsula, which two months ago menaced Port Moresby, and represented the high tide of the drive toward Australia, is near an ignominious end. The land troops are pinned back to a narrow strip of coast between Buna and Gona and efforts to relieve them from the sea have only added to the toll exacted from the Japanese navy in the bitter war of attrition in the South Pacific.

In the Solomons Japanese fortunes have been even worse, if possible. Our Navy now adds more ships to the already formidable list of enemy losses, suggesting that what Secretary Knox calls round two of the Solomons slugging match has cost the Mikado's fleet two battleships, eight cruisers and some 18 lesser craft. These are truly crippling losses, but it is too early to suggest that they have altered the balance of sea power in the Pacific definitely in our favor. Our Navy is preparing for round three in the Solomons and there is no disposition among the men who know best to count

Apology

Aurora, Ind., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Those husbands who get into trouble because they forget to mail letters to their mothers-in-law can always say they weren't as bad as Carl Buchanan, Guilford postmaster.

Buchanan, a veteran of World War I, decided he wanted to see his old uniform again. He dug it out and in a pocket in the blouse was a letter given to him in 1917 by Clayton Necks of Aurora to mail to Mrs. Necks. Both men were in France at the time.

Buchanan mailed the letter to Mrs. Necks with a letter of apology.

Bar Association Protest Election of Judge With Only 23,822 Ballots

Chicago, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Winning a seat as associate justice of Chicago's Municipal court by polling only 23,822 votes out of a total ballot of some 1,300,000 is the unique achievement of John R. McSweeney.

McSweeney's election, the most talked of incident of the state's Nov. 3 ballot, has brought a protest from Chicago Bar Association officials, its president terming it "a travesty on the election process."

The 51-year-old former state legislator was elected to an unexpired term by polling 23,822 written ballots, while the smallest vote for any regular candidate was 502,833. By all manner of reckoning, all of the voters who marked ballots for McSweeney had heard of his campaign. The rest of the city's approximate 1,300,000 voters approximately didn't know he was running for office.

Navy's Victory Over Japs Grows

Germans Routed in Caucasus Fighting; Russian News Good

Nazi Pressure on Great Grozny Oil Fields Is Eased by Victory

Moscow, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Red army units pressed hard after fleeing Germans in the deep Caucasus today, following up a major victory that eased Nazi pressure on the great Grozny oil fields near the Caspian sea and on the military road leading south into the rich Trans-Caucasus.

Latest front line reports bore out the earlier impression that a major fascist force—possibly four divisions of 45,000 men—was routed in a battle of several days on the approaches to Ordzhonikidze.

About 10,000 of the enemy were killed in this engagement and in another almost as important far to the north of the Volkhov front just below Leningrad, Russian communiques said.

Attaching "great significance" to the Soviet offensive in the Caucasus, Izvestia said "it serves as a signal which will be repeated on different sectors of the front."

A special communique brought first news of the triumph last night, reporting 5,000 of the enemy killed, several times that many wounded and vast military booty captured.

Today's added details confirmed or revised upward all these figures and spread joy among the Russian people whose hope and confidence have been rising as temperatures have fallen under the impact of early winter.

More Good News

Today's midday communique brought more good news from far to the north where German casualties were set at 5,000 over a three-day period of futile attacks in an attempt to retake a recently captured town on the Volkhov sector of the Leningrad front.

The communique said that in the Stalingrad area last night in one sector German infantry and tanks broke through to the rear of two Russian units but a fierce counterattack restored the lines.

The rest of the overnight picture was one of stabilized lines and relatively little activity except near Tuzsue along the Black sea coast where the Germans were reported driven back in efforts to re-take positions recently won by the Russians.

The Germans for weeks had been eyeing Ordzhonikidze which lies at the northern end of the Georgian military highway winding south through the Caucasus mountains to Tiflis. From it they could have struck southward toward the Transcaucasus or eastward toward Grozny's oil.

Cut Into Red Lines

While one German army sought to smash through southeast from Nalchik to Ordzhonikidze, another tried to drive from Moxdok southward to the coveted city.

Piling up large forces of men and machines southeast of Nalchik, the Germans and their allies finally opened an offensive that wedged deeply into Red lines and reached the actual approaches to Ordzhonikidze.

At this point the Red army turned on the invaders and halted them with heavy losses but the Germans persisted in their pressure on the military highway terminus.

While the Russians were tearing into the advanced Nazi ranks in defensive counterthrusts, Soviet commanders prepared another blow in a nearby area.

The army newspaper Red Star said that when this force struck out a large German group was cut off and forced into a fight for its existence. The Germans converted three settlements into strong points of resistance but were quickly outflanked and driven up on the slopes of lofty mountains where Soviet artillery and trench mortars blasted them for five days.

Pressed against the mountains,

47 Asylum Inmates' Deaths "Murder" Says Gov. Sprague

Salem, Ore., Nov. 20.—(AP)—A powerful poison, possibly an insecticide mistaken for powdered milk and used to cook scrambled eggs, caused the deaths of 47 insane asylum inmates, an investigation revealed today, and Gov. Charles A. Sprague termed the tragedy "mass murder."

The governor said he had directed the state police to "leave no stone unturned in their effort to affix responsibility for this mass murder." The possibility of homicide was studied.

Nothing was wrong with the frozen egg yolks supplied the Oregon state hospital for the insane by the Agricultural Marketing Administration, Gov. Sprague said. "The poison was evidently added in the preparation of the food."

Dr. J. C. Evans, hospital superintendent, said an analysis of the eggs served at dinner Wednesday night showed they contained a deadly poison (sodium fluoride) commonly used in insecticides.

Poison Stored Nearby

He cited the possibility that roach powder, kept in a barrel in a cellar under the kitchen, was put into the eggs during their preparation instead of powdered milk, stored nearby. The powders are similar in appearance.

He said an inmate kitchen helper preparing the eggs left the pot unattended for five or ten minutes while he went to the cellar in search of powdered milk. It is possible, he said, that the poison could have been put into the eggs during this time.

A total of 467 inmates who ate the eggs became violently ill in a matter of minutes afterward. All were nauseated, complained of stomach cramps, paralysis of the legs and difficulty in breathing.

The strong lived; the weaker died in agony.

Dr. Evans said many still were critically ill and he feared the death toll might increase within the next week or two.

Battered Cruiser, "One-Ship Fleet", Sails to Home Port

Boise Chief Instrument in Sinking Six Jap Ships in Battle

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Battered and torn by many Japanese shells and once given up for lost, the U. S. Navy light cruiser Boise came home from the Solomon Island battle zone Thursday as a band blared "Hold That Tiger" and sailors on nearby ships in the naval yard here cheered and threw their hats into the air. Smiling crew members lined the decks, anxious to set foot on American soil for the first time in five months.

Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, who flew here from Washington, D. C., decorated 12 officers and men for valor.

Will Double Plane Production in '43

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A vastly stepped-up allied air offensive was in the making today as the nation disclosed plans to double its warplane production within a year.

Charles E. Wilson, former General Electric Company president and recently named vice chairman of the War Production Board, was made administrator of the gigantic program which is expected to make plane output a $30,000,000, 000 a year industry.

WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson, announcing the plans yesterday, did not disclose how many planes were to be built. President Roosevelt's "blue print for victory" goals set soon after the country went to war called for 60,000 planes this year and 125,000 in 1943 but this program was revised downward to permit greater production of harder-hitting types found more valuable on the war fronts.

Wilson already is forming a new aircraft production board to supervise production and procurement of both Army and Navy planes and parts, Nelson said. WPB's present aircraft production division will be dissolved and its more than 200 employees will be assigned to the Army and Navy.

Mixup

Chicago, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Assistant U. S. Attorney John Kieley, who prosecutes draft evaders in this federal area, was listed as a draft delinquent yesterday by local board 25.

Col. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois selective service director, said he had ordered the local board and Cook county draft headquarters to submit full reports of the case to him for study.

District Attorney J. Albert Woll said the development was the result of a "mixup" and that Attorney General Francis Biddle had requested a temporary deferment for Kieley, who is 40 and single.

He was posted as a delinquent after the local board said he twice failed to report for a physical examination and finally failed to appear for induction last Monday.

Allies Drub Enemy in Three Clashes in Northern Africa

Closing in on Bizerta and Tunis From Three Landward Sides

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

Allied headquarters announced today that American and British troops, locked in the first heavy fighting in Tunisia, had driven back every German attempt to thrust out from their newly-formed lines around Tunis and Bizerte, while pro-allied French soldiers captured small Nazi forces in eastern Tunisia.

An allied spokesman said British and American troops were closing in on all landward sides of the big axis-held naval stronghold of Bizerte and Tunis.

Allied vanguards were reported within 30 miles of both cities, striking from several directions.

At the same time, Adolf Hitler's high command acknowledged that fleeing axis columns in Libya had abandoned Bengasi, the last escape port in North Africa east of Tripoli.

United Nations headquarters said allied troops, including American mobile artillery units, drubbed the axis in three sharp clashes yesterday, destroying about one-third of a German armored column and driving two other Nazi columns into retreat.

French colonial troops were officially reported to have bagged a group of Nazis attempting to push south along the Gulf of Gabes in eastern Tunisia.

Best Nazi Equipment

Dispatches said the opening battle for control of the strategic north African buffer state developed between 30 and 40 miles from Bizerte, big axis-held naval stronghold, with the Germans using their best medium tanks.

Speaker Seeks to Delay Gas Ration

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A spokesman in the Office of Rubber Administrator William Jeffers said today the office was "unfavorably opposed" to postponement of nationwide gasoline rationing as a bi-partisan congressional block sought a 30 to 90 day stay of the order now effective December 1.

The spokesman, who desired not to be quoted by name, said: "The Baruch report clearly demonstrated the necessity of nationwide rationing to keep passenger cars on the road for essential driving. Any impartial and thorough study of the situation will arrive at the same conclusion."

Rep. Jed Johnson (D-Okla.), chairman of the congressional caucus of 75 members and chairman of a special committee set up by the caucus, earlier had said it would meet with Jeffers tomorrow.

Inquiry at the Office of Price Administration as to reports from Rep. Boren (D-Okla.) that hundreds of residents of Oklahoma were refusing to register for rationing brought the reply: "They just won't get gasoline or tires after December 1 if they don't have coupon books."

Members of the congressional committee expressed the view, in general, that the only way they could get a delay was by persuasion, rather than compulsion, because the December 1 deadline was so near.

Last night, after 75 house members at a caucus had unanimously voted to demand a 90-day postponement of nationwide rationing, Speaker Rayburn disclosed he was seeking to get high officials to postpone the program at least until January 1.

Urges Whooping Cough Immunization of Pupils

All children in kindergarten, first, or second grades in the Dixon public schools who are not immune to whooping cough should be immunized at once by their private physicians, according to Dr. J. B. Werren, local health officer, and Dr. Barakoff of the Lee County Health Department.

A number of children have been ill in school suspected of having whooping cough, and it is important that all those children who are not protected have this done at once by their private physician.

It is also requested that children who are ill be kept at home and not sent to school until they have been examined by their physician. Parents should call their doctor when the children develop a temperature, sore throat, or other symptoms which might prove serious.

FBI Nabs 13-Yr.-Old in $10,000 Extortion Plot

Los Angeles, Nov. 20.—(AP)—A $10,000 extortion plot against actor Errol Flynn, engineered by a 13-year-old San Bernardino schoolboy, was disclosed last night by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The F. B. I. said young Billy Seamster had sent a note to the actor, now awaiting trial on charges of statutory rape, demanding the money on pain of death. The lad was arrested, said agent Richard B. Hood, at a San Bernardino malt shop where he had directed the money to be sent.

The lad was released to his parents while the U. S. attorney's office studies possible further action.

Draft Deferment of Federal Employees Ordered Cancelled

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that a manpower program to be announced soon would provide machinery for draft deferment of essential workers in munitions plants.

The president told a press conference he did not know whether the manpower problem would be handled through administration action, but he said probably little legislation would be required in any event.

He said, too, that he had written the War and Navy secretaries directing that they accept no enlistments and grant no commissions, effective as of last Monday, to governmental employees.

This followed his instructions to heads of all governmental agencies and departments to cancel draft deferments for federal workers and to ask for no deferments except in exceptional cases.

Roosevelt said there had been a rush Tuesday, by men who thought they were likely to be drafted, to obtain commissions.

The president said that restrictions apply both to enlistments and commissions and that when the manpower setup is perfected the government also would prevent the drafting of men out of munitions plant operations where they are needed.

Uniform Action Problem

A problem exists, he said, in attempting to get uniformity of action by draft boards all over the country, but he thought a partial solution could be had by bringing in an element which he said was not sufficiently present now.

This is the management element, he said, and possibly management will be asked to certify more frequently to draft boards whether prospective draftees really are irreplaceable. There is not enough consultation now with factories, the president asserted.

As for government workers, Roosevelt said there would be a good many people here in Washington who are essential to the

Promotions

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., who led an American fleet to a spectacular victory over Japanese naval forces in the southwest Pacific last week was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be a full Admiral.

The president also recognized through promotions to two leaders in the North African campaign.

Brigadier General James H. Doolittle, in charge of American air forces in North Africa, was nominated to be Major General.

Rear Admiral Henry K. Hewitt, who had a leading role in bringing the invasion forces successfully to North Africa and subduing the opposition of French vessels, was nominated to be a Vice Admiral.

ALLIES NEAR BUNA

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Nov. 20.—(AP)—American and Australian jungle fighters pinned the Japanese into a narrow corridor along the Papan coast between Buna and Gona today after allied airmen had smashed an enemy sea and air relief thrust, sinking a cruiser and destroyer and downing three planes.

Today's noon communique said that allied ground forces were fighting in the outskirts of Buna, main enemy base in the battle area, and Gona, the settlement about 30 miles northwest along the coast where the Japanese made their initial landing in this region last July 22.

After days of withdrawal with little or no resistance, the Japanese apparently were making a stand on Buna and Gona in a last effort to prevent expulsion from the sector from which they launched the drive that menaced Port Moresby, on the Australian side of New Guinea, only last September.

Under the personal leadership of General MacArthur, the allies seemed close to the climax of the counteroffensive which has driven the enemy back along his own

Tobruk, Reconquered, Found to Be Vast Graveyard of Axis Vessels

By EDWARD H. CROCKETT

Aboard a British Minesweeper in Tobruk Harbor, Nov. 16.—(Delayed)—(AP)—We have only been in this bomb-splattered harbor a few minutes and will leave very soon—but during the past two days this flotilla has been plenty busy.

The job of these ships is to clear the sea lanes for merchant traffic, to make sure no mines are left to damage the cargo vessels.

Our's were the first vessels to enter Tobruk harbor since the re-occupation.

38 Enemy Vessels Sunk, 10 Damaged in Solomon Battle

Nippon Suffers Most Disastrous Defeat in Late History

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The United States Navy dealt the Japanese fleet the most disastrous defeat in modern naval warfare, it became apparent today, with disclosure that enemy losses in last week's three-day sea battle probably reached the staggering proportions of 25 ships destroyed and 10 more damaged.

This setback, believed to have cost the Nipponese two battleships, six heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, six destroyers and 12 transports and cargo ships, became even more crushing with news that allied bombers sank another cruiser and a destroyer off New Guinea last night.

The American sea victory in the Solomons grew in magnitude last night when the Navy's delayed report on Saturday night's battle off Guadalcanal told of the sinking of a Japanese battleship or heavy cruiser, three large cruisers and a destroyer.

United States battleships, mentioned for the first time in a Navy communique on the southwestern Pacific war, thundered into the fight, exchanging long-range wall-pops that forced the foe to turn stern and flee northward.

Duplication Unlikely

While citing the sinking of the five warships and the damaging of another battleship, cruiser and a destroyer, the Navy cautioned that "this report of damage may include some of the damage already reported."

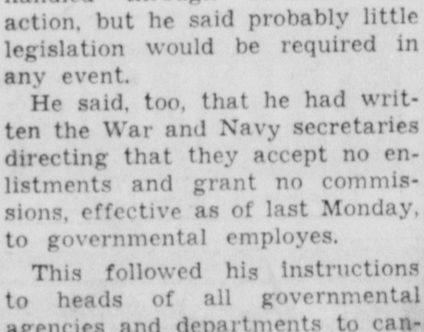

A naval spokesman expressed belief, however, that if there was any duplication, it probably was not extensive.

The first report of the savage encounter from Nov. 13 to 15 told

Retail Coffee Sale Comes to End at 12 Midnight Tomorrow

Rationing Will Become Effective One Week From Sunday

Housewives throughout Lee county will be interested in an announcement made public at the offices of the Lee County War Price and Rationing Board today which pertains to the coffee rationing program. Mrs. Avis Crawford, secretary of the board announced that coffee rationing regulations will become effective at midnight Saturday.

Consumers will not be required to register for this rationing program. Retailers and wholesalers will not be required to register at the beginning of the program but later will be required to file a report. During the period from midnight Saturday, Nov. 21st to Nov. 28th no coffee sales will be permitted to a consumer.

Beginning Sunday, Nov. 29th through Sunday, Jan. 3rd an eligible customer can purchase one pound of roasted coffee or compound containing coffee upon the surrender of stamp No. 27 from the war ration book. Coffee will be obtainable on the sugar rationing book, it was stated, no other means of registration being required. Stamp Nos. 20 through 28 of the sugar rationing book will be used in the rationing of coffee.

each stamp having the value of one pound of coffee.

Institutional Users
Institutional users will be required to register at the office of the local board on Nov. 23, 24 and 25. The first allotment will cover the period from the date of registration through Jan. 31, 1943. The base of a registering unit composed of one or more establishments, all of which were in operation during the entire months of September and October, 1942, shall be the amount of coffee which the registered unit used in the preparation of beverages during these two months.

For convenience of removal of ration stamps from the book, coffee stamps will become valid in the following order.

First ration period, No. 27; second ration period, No. 28; third ration period, No. 25; fourth ration period, No. 26; fifth ration period, No. 23; sixth ration period, No. 24; seventh ration period, No. 21; eighth ration period, No. 22; ninth ration period, No. 20.

Periods May Vary
It is important that both buyers and sellers note that only No. 27 can be used between Nov. 29 and Jan. 3. The length of future ration periods may vary. Notice of any change will be given in advance.

Answering the question, "What is coffee?" the rationing division says: "Coffee rationing applies to any coffee, packaged or unpackaged, bean or ground, whether or not decaffeinated, and to any mixture of coffee and chicory, cereal, chick-pea, or any other substance."

"The following are not rationed: Coffee concentrates, soluble coffee, liquid, coffee extracts and any similar products made in whole or in part from coffee; coffee substitutes when not mixed with coffee."

"Sale of green coffee to consumers is prohibited."

"Everything mixed with coffee, no matter what the proportion, counts as coffee against a ration and you must detach a stamp for the total weight of the mixture. If, for example, you sell one pound of a mixture containing eight ounces of coffee and eight ounces of chicory or any other foreign substance, it counts as a full pound ration of coffee and you must detach one stamp for the pound lot."

1,688 State Officials and Employees Are in Armed Services

Leaves of Absence to Employees Ordered by Gov. Green

Springfield Ill. Nov. 20—(AP)—The nation's armed forces have called 1,688 state officials and employees to the colors, a survey disclosed today.

The first gold star marking the death of a state employee was posted recently for Marine Sgt. Richard West, Chicago, who left his post as a guard at Pontiac prison last January to join the Marines. He was killed recently while fighting as a tank commander.

Four members of the 62nd general assembly are included in the list of servicemen compiled by Governor Green's office. They are Lt. Col. Elmer H. Droste of Mt. Olive, who resigned from the state senate to continue on military duty, and state representatives Arthur H. Sprague of LaGrange, J. R. Funkhouser of Alton and Homer Kasserman of Newton. All three representatives were renominated in the primary but withdrew before the Nov. 3 election.

Thirty-five women state employees are in the Army. Public health department and welfare department nurses have become second lieutenants in the Army Nurse Corps and others have joined the W.A.A.C.

Leaves Granted
President Robert L. Hunter of the state civil service commission reported that about 750 of those in the service are civil service employees. Governor Green has ordered that leaves of absence be granted all who go to the armed forces.

The public welfare department has the largest representation with 425 in the services and the University of Illinois is second with 383.

Because of the exodus to the armed services and to war industries, Hunter said, the turnover among state employees was 50 per cent above normal. Hunter estimated that about 1,000 state employees had resigned for war industry work.

Prison guard and state hospital attendant payrolls have experienced a turnover of 85 per cent and Hunter said that heavy demands were being made for replacement of stenographers, typists, tabulating machines operators and technically trained employees such as physicians and laboratory workers.

STIMSON'S NEW OFFICE RIVALS ICKES' LUXURY

BY JOHN FISHER (Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C.—Henry L. Stimson, the 75-year-old secretary of war, will soon be able to direct war operations in a luxurious office, with all the comforts of home and rivaling if not exceeding the cushy quarters which Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes provided himself with PWA funds a few years ago.

Ickes got his private bath of blue marble finished in gold, as part of the adornment of his office, but Stimson, in the new war department building, will have a private dining room, kitchenette, private bath, and emergency living quarters.

Expect Same for Knox
Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox quickly snapped up Stimson's gracious invitation for the navy high command to share quarters in the 75 million dollar building across the Potomac in Arlington, Va. The colossal structure, known as the Pentagon building, covers 42 acres and is believed to be the largest building of its kind in the world.

It is understood that Knox will be provided with quarters similar to those planned for Stimson.

Stimson will move into his new suite some time next week, leaving his unimposing offices in the old war munitions building on Constitution avenue, a structure which was erected for temporary offices during World War I, and has remained to half house the ever growing bureaucracy.

Gets Private Elevator
Stimson's new office will be more than twice the size of his present one and will add join that of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff. A private elevator will serve them, and one of the push buttons on the elevator is reserved for Knox, who will be located directly overhead. This elevator connects with the executive garage in the basement of the gigantic structure.

The elevator opens into a lobby connecting Stimson's office with Gen. Marshall's, and there is an anteroom for visitors.

The office from which Stimson will supervise operations of the rapidly expanding army and air forces is finished in gray tones. An interesting feature is provision for war maps. There are a half dozen panels, 12 by 8 feet, on which maps for the general staff may be pinned. Each of the panels is attached to a runway so that it may be pushed out of sight into a recess in the wall when not in use.

Own Dining Room, Kitchen
Stimson's personal suite is located conveniently to his work office. There is a shower and a tiny wardrobe room; another room which could be utilized as an emergency bedroom and a living room. Furniture has not been installed yet.

The private dining room and kitchen, however, are in readiness. The dining room is for use by Stimson, Marshall, and others of the army high command where they can confer while dining or entertaining officially.

The dining room is equipped with white china marked with the war office crest. There are carpeted floors and curtained windows. Decorations are suitable for formal and informal occasions. The kitchen is a chef's delight. It is electrically equipped and two army cooks are assigned to it. There is a large electric refrigerator and an electric steam table.

And there are even little steam heated food carts which can be wheeled into Stimson's office when, and if, he is too busy to take time off for a meal in the private dining room.

—If you want to send a Christmas card to Hitler, save all your kitchen fats to make explosives for Uncle Sam, and his boys will deliver the message.

The 56th Seal in the sheet of Christmas Seals carries the identifying mark of the lithographer. Seals are an important item to stamp collectors.

Younger Men More Than Hold Own in Military Service

"How will our 18 and 19 year olds take to military training?" Today the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board in Chicago, which is the enlistment headquarters in this area for Navy Air Force pilot training, sought to answer this current question from the records of the teen-age youths it has sent into training. It turned first to the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School at Iowa City, Iowa, where the future fliers of the school are put through a conditioning course that is the most intensive given anywhere.

Lieut. Colonel Bernie Bierman, director of the school's vast athletic program, had this to say about the young cadets:

"Physically the 18- and 19-year-olds are in fine condition, and it is not difficult to maintain that condition among them. Mentally, we find these boys are eager, conscientious and have the highest morale on the base. They are usually the kind of fellows who are first to 'fall in' for muster and the last to stop wrestling and boxing when the whistle blows."

In the military activities at the Pre-Flight school, the younger men also have shown themselves ready, willing and able. Especially in drilling, Lieut. Fielding Jones finds, they have greater aptitude for learning and remember what they learn longer than their older mates.

More Than Hold Own
"About the base we notice that the young men enter into the training procedure wholeheartedly and show conscientious effort in getting physically and mentally ready for flight training", Lieut. Jones states. "From our standpoint, the 18- and 19-year-olds more than hold their own because of their adaptability toward this type of training".

These are the men, the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board knows, who will chiefly be fighting the Navy's air battles in the months to come; they will be the young officers of the Navy's new Vought-Sikorsky Corsairs and Grumman Wildcats.

According to Lieut. Comdr. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the Board, 79 per cent of the 750 pilot cadets enlisted in this area last month were under 21 years of age, with 43 per cent of these men 18 and 19 years old. Daily the average age of the new enlistees is falling (applicants for Navy pilot training must be from 18 through 26 years) as younger men throughout the region become more and more eager to serve their country in this outstanding branch of the service.

It's a young man's war—and the Navy Air Force is holding up its end!

Enemy Has More Forces in Field—Patterson

New York, Nov. 20—(AP)—While the allies have greater manpower resources, the enemy has "superior land forces in the field," says Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, who contends "it is up to us to furnish the soldiers who will give us superiority in numbers over the axis powers."

He declared last night that "by the end of this year we will have more than 1,000,000 men overseas," but added:

"There is no plan to send the entire army abroad."

Patterson addressed the first anniversary dinner of Freedom House.

AFL, Shell Oil Co. To Meet Saturday

Wood River, Ill., Nov. 20—(AP)—Representatives of the AFL Operating Engineers' Union and officials of the Shell Oil Co. will meet Saturday at Alton in an attempt to settle a dispute over demotion of a foreman at the company's refinery here.

Arrangements for the meeting were made yesterday by Ronald Houghton, a mediator for the War Labor Board, from Washington.

A strike threatened when Victor Recker, foreman, was demoted because of the company's contention that he violated safety regulations but was postponed when the WLB took charge.

Collision of Navy Planes Fatal to 7

Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 20—(AP)—A collision between two Navy patrol planes over Pensacola Bay took the lives of seven men attached to the local air station and two RAF student fliers, officials revealed yesterday.

Cause of the accident, which occurred Wednesday, was not known, but Navy spokesmen said the planes apparently collided near the water while engaged in landing or take-off operations.

Victims aboard one of the ships were Ensign Frederick W. Greve, III, USNR, pilot-instructor, of West Lafayette, Ind.; Corp. Ernest W. Tull, RAF student, of Slough, Buckinghamshire, England; William J. White, also of the RAF, of Stratfordshire, England; and Walter R. Porter, aviation machinist's mate, Detroit.

Aboard the second plane the dead were Ensign Robert S. Geiger, USNR, pilot instructor, Green Cove Springs, Fla.; Cadet Fielding L. Mercer, II, USN, Prairie View, Ill.; Cadet Barclay N. Dorman, USNR, Washington, D. C.; Charles E. Rozier, aviation machinist, Moncks Corner, S. C.; and Johnnie C. Hopkins, seaman 2 class, Vienna, Mo.

Find Askins Guilty in Carpenter's Death

Vandalia, Ill., Nov. 20—(AP)—A circuit court jury recommended a 14-year sentence in the state penitentiary for Harlin (Arch) Askins, 48, in finding him guilty last night of the death of C. C. Martin, 30-year-old carpenter, Fancher.

Askins pleaded self defense, the shooting which occurred last August.

The new aircraft carrier, named for the famed Lexington, was completed a year ahead of schedule.

The WHO..WHEN..HOW..WHY of Coffee Rationing

In a few days coffee rationing will become a "law of the land." Everyone who enjoys coffee should read these questions and remember the answers.

grocer must have these stamps to replenish his supply.

Q. Am I limited to buying only one pound of coffee at a time?

A. No. You can buy as many pounds at a time as your family has stamps for during the specified period. But we urge—for the present at least—that you buy coffee just as you need it—one or two stamps at a time. Wartime problems of production and transportation will make it difficult to have plenty of coffee every place at the same time. If you'll help "spread it out" you should be able to get your share always.

Q. If I eat some meals in a restaurant do I have to take my rationing book?

A. No, you don't. Coffee rationing, as we have explained it, applies only to supplies for home use purchased through grocery stores. Restaurants, as well as all other "institutions" such as defense plants, hospitals, schools and any other group that purchases coffee for serving as beverage, are authorized to apply to Rationing Boards for certificates enabling them to purchase amounts of coffee which will permit service on a rationed basis.

Q. I have a boy in the Armed Forces. Will it give him more coffee if I don't buy any coffee at all?

A. No, it won't help him a bit. Coffee to every branch of the Service is exempt from rationing. And Uncle Sam is giving the boys not only more, but better coffee than they have ever had before.

Q. And finally—Why has coffee been rationed?

A. Even if the rationing of coffee doesn't permit you as much coffee as you would like to have, please don't think of it essentially as limitation. It is limitation in a sense, since supplies of green coffee from our neighboring Latin American countries have been reduced by a shortage of ships. But we've all got to be good sports. They can't ship it... we can't roast and pack it... you can't drink it.

The thing to do is to look upon coffee rationing primarily as a guarantee that every person will be permitted to buy as much as his neighbor. It is to be hoped that as the problem of supply and demand becomes adjusted through the functioning of coffee rationing, you may be allowed to have more coffee.

Recent Bride Is Complimented at Shower Parties

Mrs. Lowell Smith, the former Mrs. Durham, has been complimented at three shower parties this week, preceding her departure on Sunday for Davenport, Ia., to join her bridegroom, an employe at the Rock Island arsenal. The Smith-Durham marriage took place in Davenport earlier in November.

Last evening, the Misses Audrey Knack and Jeanne Moore invited dozen friends to the Knack home on Crawford avenue for a linen shower as a post-nuptial courtesy for Mrs. Smith. The honoree found gift packages hidden upstairs and down, after deciphering clues and inside balloons that were suspended overhead about the rooms.

Gin rummy was the evening's pastime, with Elaine Moerschbacher, Lila Lee Kirk and Josephine O'Brien winning honors. At the refreshments table, a two-tier cake decorated with yellow seashells was served with chocolate ice cream turkeys.

Mrs. Smith's gift cards read for Mrs. Clefford Moran, the Misses Lila Lee Kirk, Marjorie Kuhn, Josephine O'Brien, Donna Furling, Lois Fitzsimmons, Marynet McKinney, Elaine Moerschbacher, Garnet Doran, and the hostesses.

Wednesday evening's hostesses are Mrs. William LaFever and Miss Cheryl Stetson, who were giving a kitchen shower at the La-

FROM BAY CITY

Due in Dixon tomorrow for a visit that will extend through Thanksgiving and on into next week end will be the junior George Fluehrs and their two young sons, Kuhlman and David, of Bay City, Mich. They will be guests of Mr. Fluehr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Fluehr, Sr. of 323 East Boyd street.

Fever nome. The bride's kitchen is to be in black and white, and shining utensils in those colors were presented to the guest of honor. Prizes in bridal games and bingo, won by the honoree, Jeanne Moore and Patty Lou Gannon, were also kitchen gadgets, and both Jeanne and Patty Lou presented their favors to Mrs. Smith. Wedding bells topped a bride's cake at the refreshment table, and the centerpiece was the miniature bridal pair that adorned the wedding cake at the LaFever-Bevilacqua wedding, two years ago.

Tuesday evening saw 16 guests circling buncos tables, as guests of Miss Garnet Doran and Mrs. Clefford Moran. Patty Lou Gannon and Marjorie Kuhn were successful in the games, with refreshments following. The bride's cake on this occasion was decorated with a tiny bridal pair on its top tier. An electric sandwich toaster was the group's gift for the honoree.

Service Club Charity Ball Is Brilliant Affair; Many Parties Precede Dancing

There was no priority on gayety in Dixon last night. Cocktail parties, formal dinners, buffet suppers, no-host gatherings—all kinds of "pre-party" affairs you can think of, with a "housewarming" for good measure—preceded the Service Club's fourth annual Charity Ball, one of the gayest events Dixon has known for some time. Attractive feminine guests in becoming gowns, new faces to meet, good music and lots of enthusiasm make fine combinations for parties, and with all those requirements filled, last night's affair was all that could be desired. At least 125 couples thronged the ball room of Brinton Memorial Masonic temple, and with profits from ticket sales, the sponsors estimate they will have about $150 additional working capital to purchase equipment and furnishings for Katherine Shaw Betha hospital—a beneficiary that is the club's real reason for being.

Largest of last evening's party groups, (close to 100 guests in all), was seen at the informal open house during intermission at the new home of Dr. and Mrs. David Murphy, 303 East Everett street. Both newcomers and Dixon and Sterling friends of long standing called between 11 o'clock and midnight, lingering to admire the beautifully appointed rooms.

Sterling friends received by the Murphys included Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dillon, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Jacobs, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Behrens, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bittorf, and Mr. and Mrs. Newburt. (The John Fredericks of Sterling were also greeting Dixon acquaintances at the dance).

The William Steinwedells, former Winnetkans who have been established for some time at their new Dixon address at the corner of Dement avenue and East Second street, planned a buffet supper for a small party of guests, including Lieut. Col. George Underdown, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwab, Mr. and Mrs. Willet Gorham, Miss Jean Ross of Lake Bluff and Mr. Shuck, and the Robert Dixons. Mrs. Schwab is the former Miss Mary Florsheim of Boston and Chicago.

The young James Heyworths, newcomers to Dixon within the past year that has brought many interesting and well-liked families to town, were entertaining at dinner for the Gunder Torstensons, the Torstensons' houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Orth of Milwaukee, also the John Roes, and the William Kendalls. The Orths, Mrs. Torstensons' brother and sister-in-law, reached Dixon yesterday and were off for Milwaukee again today. The Kendalls formerly resided in Hinsdale.

Capt. Cal G. Tyler was out from Chicago for the dance and the Tylers were among a half dozen couples who were guests of the C. B. Lindells of 416 North Hennepin avenue at a pre-dance dinner. (There were a number of other army men in full dress uniform among last night's dance-goers, too, including Lieut. Colonel Underdown, Major C. G. Tolson, Capt. Robert Brewster, who has just returned from a year of service in Hawaii and will be off again soon after a visit with his family, and Lieut. Robert Stouffer, a recent graduate from officer's training school at Fort Benning, Ga., who leaves Monday morning for Camp Howze, a new training center near Gainesville, Texas. Lieut. Colonel Underdown is area engineer at the Green River ordnance plant, and Major Tolson is commanding officer.)

The Kent Leepers and the junior Mark Kellers were receiving at the Leeper home, before going on to the Masonic temple. With the Donald R. Alltons of 921 Ottawa avenue for cocktails before the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gronski, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hinkle, Miss Lois Chillingworth and Malcolm Temple, and Arthur Temple.

Frankie Pzyner's orchestra from Ladd, Ill., a band that makes frequent appearances at Dixon dancing parties, entertained from 9:30 on. The big ballroom was festooned with braided streamers in patriotic red, white and blue that provided another wartime reminder.

Patrons and patronesses included the Steinwedells, Major and Mrs. Tolson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bracken, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Lesage, and Miss Agnes Florence, hospital superintendent.

A large share of the orchids that might be awarded those responsible for the party's success, both socially and financially are due the hard-working general chairman, Mrs. F. H. Roe; Mrs. R. E. Erikson of Grand Detour, who superintended ticket sales, and her capable co-chairman, Mrs. Donald Marks; and Mrs. Forrest J. Trautwein, the club president, as well as Frederick J. Garner of the Grand Detour artist colony, who contributed several posters for advance publicity.

Community Players Have Guest Night

Community Players and their guests, about 50 strong, gathered at the Loveland Community House last evening for a delightfully informal social Guest Night. Joe Hall, president, greeted the visitors before introducing Louis Leydig, who planned a varied and entertaining program for the occasion.

Appearing first were Mrs. Joe Hall, Wallace Elifson, Mrs. Herbert Reader, and Mrs. Wilford Kitchin in a skit, "The Fatal Quest", followed by a vocal solo, "Fleeting Hour" by Randal Warfel; a reading, "Green Mountain Justice," Marilyn Crawford; vocal solos, "I Hear a Brown Thrush Singing" and a South American melody, J. V. Ridolph; a humorous skit, "Stage Struck," by Ada Venier and Winifred Richardson; and a "free-for-all" quiz program.

Cider and doughnuts were served at the close of the entertainment.

Army Is a Business for Men— And That Includes Husbands

By RUTH MILLETT

Most men look uncomfortable when their wives start talking about their husbands' draft status, even though all the wife says is, "Thank goodness, they haven't taken MY husband yet."

Though when the talk gets started most wives say more than that. They take stands. They say, for instance, "I don't think the Army ought to take married men."

Or, they point out reasons why their husbands shouldn't be taken—bringing up old ailments until they make a robust man look like an invalid.

They "Couldn't Get Along"

Some of them go helpless and say they just don't think they could ever get along without their husbands. And others say they don't think their husbands could stand Army life.

But no matter what they say, they usually end up by making their husbands look a little bit silly.

That is because the Army is a man's business. Whether or not he goes in may effect his wife's life as much as it does his—but it is still his business, and not hers. And she ought to let him handle the subject conversationally.

A wife's publicly taking a stand on the matter makes her husband look hen-pecked. She reduces his stature from a man who is an individual, to just another husband who is so indispensable to one woman he hasn't any right to make his own decisions.

Of course, it is all right for wives to have their say privately on what they think their husbands ought to do about going into service.

But in front of other people they ought to keep still. If someone says, "How do you feel about it, Louise?"—the best thing a wife can answer is, "That's Bob's problem."

A Thought for Today

Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written there in; for the time is at hand.—Revelation 1:3.

Servant of God, well done, well hast thou fought.
The better fight.—Milton.

First War Casualties

Dixon's first war casualties may be the children. One out of every three or four housewives from 18 to 44 years old will have to take jobs, it is estimated by the War Manpower Commission. Many of these will be mothers of small children. Dixon must now choose whether or not these children of mothers who work for victory will become war casualties because of lack of care in these formative years.

They need not be. Dixon can defend the children of mothers working for victory. As a part of the Civilian Defense Program Mayor Slothower has appointed a Child Care Commission to establish a day nursery and after school activities for the children of working mothers. A campaign for funds will begin on Saturday, Nov. 21. This is worthy of your support.

"Eight Hour Orphans" in the Oct. 10th Saturday Evening Post tells of the deplorable conditions existing elsewhere that can happen in Dixon, unless we prevent them. This article concludes, "Tomorrow is our children's. To preserve tomorrow for them and not to preserve them for tomorrow seems utterly illogical." Estimates of the increase of juvenile delinquency vary from 20 per cent to 40 per cent over the nation. A large factor in this increase is the lack of supervision after school hours of children of working parents. But these children will be the builders and defenders of American democracy tomorrow. You can help save America's greatest asset by sending a check to help defend the children of Dixon mothers who are working for victory.

That's Not the Answer

It is easy for cosmic planners to brush off the farm labor problem by suggesting that farmers' wives should help out more in the fields. But they will have to dig deeper than that into their bags of tricks, if food is to be produced for this country and its allies.

With few exceptions, farm women have been devoting more hours and more womanpower to production, right down through the years, than city women will put into factory work under an all-out economy.

The average farm wife has been giving all she has for so long that there isn't much stretch left.

Britain Speaks

Possibly in answer to Wendell Willkie, Prime Minister, Winston Churchill has made the following statement:

"Let me, however, make this clear, in case there should be any mistake about it in any quarter: We mean to hold our own. I have not become the king's first minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British empire."

That is an interesting statement. Coming from the king's first minister, and coming subsequent to the Atlantic charter, it no doubt represents a denial of some things that Americans have been led to believe the so-called Atlantic charter means.

Americans, if they wish, can fight for the four freedoms and what they think the Atlantic charter means. It matters little to others, who are fighting for their lives, what aims we may have in mind, if only our fighting is directed against the common enemy. After the war is won the British still will have their empire, and we still can have our ideals.

It is not uncommon for nations to differ in their policies, or to differ in policies they seem to have. The war began long before the Atlantic charter was nailed together, and it was reasonable enough for the British to have declared war against Germany when they did. Their foreign policy, based on years of experience in dealing with European affairs, called for a declaration of war against Germany.

Germany was threatening the British empire. True enough, Hitler had stated he had no quarrel with the British, but the British preferred not to believe him. They had that right. They assumed that Hitler would consolidate Europe by military or political means, or by both means, and then the Hitlerian new order would be strong enough to challenge Britain. That couldn't be permitted to happen. It was self-interest, and self-interest is akin to self-preservation.

The Atlantic charter came later, and we wish again to make the point that it was not a treaty. It gave nothing and it took nothing away.

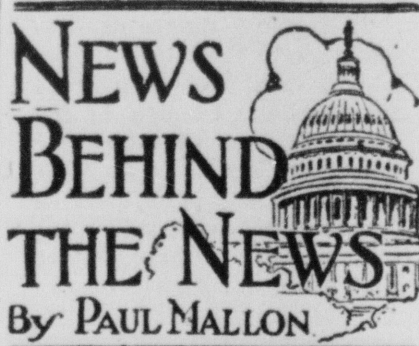

If the British are to preserve their empire after this war is won, as they will wish to do, then it follows that the French, Dutch, Belgian and Portuguese empires should be preserved too, as complements of the British empire.

If so, why are Americans fighting? Has Mr. Churchill shot the war out from under our feet? The average American is fighting because territory of the United States was attacked by the Japanese, and because immediately thereafter Germany and Italy declared war against us. When someone declares war against us, there is nothing to do but fight. If, in that fight, we find ourselves being helped by the British and others, so much the better. If not, we have to fight anyway.

We shall win the war, and if, in winning the war we have helped the British to retain their empire, we suppose they shall be happy. But we are not fighting primarily to help the British save the empire, and we are not fighting to break up the empire. We are fighting because we have been attacked.

Specialist Corps

The real inside story of what happened to the Army Specialist Corps experiment has yet to be told. Until it is, one can not be blamed for suspecting that the basic trouble was the Army's jealousy of any uniformed war agency not wholly under its control. We are sorry.

(Distributed by King Features syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Nov. 19.—Advocates of a global state, or a purified world in unity, after the war, are chirruping louder now—but it is evident that more authoritative spokesmen and more tangible facts already are salting down their plans.

Behind recent events, it is obvious that the post-war world is going to be fixed by negotiation, based on conditions (economic, financial and political) prevailing at the end of the war, rather than by the hopes of American idealists or Europe's democratic refugees.

For instance, Churchill announced he was not conducting Britain's war to accomplish the dismemberment of the British Empire.

A shocked answer to the prime minister was given—not by any statesman of the world who will be at the peace table, but by one who has no official position which would take him there, Willkie. The world statesmen were silent.

Similarly, the American official devotees of global unity are making moving speeches on the subject, but Mr. Roosevelt, who will have the final say, has contented himself recently with advocating the practical Philippine system of establishing independence among smaller states by mutually acceptable short, sure, progressive steps over years and decades.

Wallace, the V. P., Thomas Mann, the greatest living literary artist; Archibald MacLeish, the political poet laureate, and others of that wing, are crusading among the intellectuals of this country in favor of eradicating every selfish impulse, in the future world, giving everyone in the world a quart of milk a day, and making all nations live hereafter in some form of selfless, God-loving state, yet unsystematized in their minds.

They even promoted a new Bill of Rights last Sunday. It was issued by the National Resources Planning Board, and contained such spectacular suggestions as "the right to work, to fair pay, to eat," etc. The New York Times played it back on page 51. Otherwise, it was also generally unnoticed.

From all this evidence, it is clear Willkie, Wallace, et al., have neglected to note the primary necessity for success of their cause. They forgot unity is a mutual affair.

Any kind of unity, global or otherwise, must be a genuine, freely entered agreement by all participating sides. Unity cannot be imposed by one party on another (unless you mean the kind of unity Hitler gave Czechoslovakia).

It is plain our victorious peace is not going to be written by Wallace, or even by Roosevelt—but at a table where Churchill, Stalin, Chiang Kai-Shek and others will sit.

While Willkie and Wallace agitate, Churchill pledges himself to maintenance of the British Empire (including India?) and Stalin—ah, yes, Stalin, whose democratic ideals were lauded by Wallace, speaks not a word about democracies, or Atlantic Charters, or Bills of Rights, or Russia's plan for post-war. He did not send anything to the New York Herald-Tribune Forum.

Apparently, we—we good Americans—are the only nationality in the world talking about building international TVA's, international banks, giving a quart of milk a day, "global states," "world unity." No one else is.

All Chiang wanted at the New York Herald-Tribune Forum, for instance, was the right to run his own country. All that Queen Wilhelmina wanted was "justice and firmness tempered by wisdom."

If Wallace, theoretically, was able to effect the kind of unity he talks about, under these circumstances, it would not be unity, but paternalism—American paternalism over the world, with our money, the paternalism in which "papa pays the bills," but does not necessarily have the love of the children.

In truth, their world would not even be democratic, but more imperial than ever—a world in debt to papa. Norman Thomas, who, though a Socialist, has his eyes open, calls them "totalitarian liberals."

Thus are the prospects for post-war settling down upon the bases of reality and fact, far aside from the flights of fancy of our most audacious hopefuls.

Thus, it is now apparent, the peace and the better world hereafter will be defined by compromise and mutual acceptance, rather than what any of our boys think and want.

The consultations will be between the U. S., Britain, Russia and others and the conclusions (to endure) must be mutually acceptable to all.

Our gifts of quarts of milk will be limited by the size of our debt. Our bestowals of freedom will be limited by what the world wants and will take.

True, the war is yet to be won, but here at least, is the beginning of concrete understanding as to what it may bring. This is not at

Lt. GEN. J. A. LEJEUNE

Baltimore, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Lieutenant General John A. LeJeune, former commander of the U. S. Marine Corps, died in Union Memorial hospital this morning.

The 40 years of service which General LeJeune gave to the United States Marine Corps brought him recognition as one of the ablest military leaders of his time.

Noted for his ability and achievements as an organizer and commander of forces in earlier international crises, he became famous during the World war with the Second Division of the American Expeditionary Forces. As his accomplishments became better known during the last eight years of his service, while commanding of the Marines, he was characterized often as "the greatest of all leathernecks".

Although notable, LeJeune's career was devoid of the spectacular. An unassuming man, he spent his life in performing as best he could every task assigned to him whether it called for exercise of the unusual courage, initiative or ability he possessed.

Mild of Manner

Mild of manner, he was, nevertheless, always resolute and energetic. He was popular in the military circles of other nations as well as with his own countrymen because of his unflinching tact. Although an unfaltering disciplinarian, he was the military idol of both officers and men of the ranks in the corps.

When General LeJeune was appointed commander of the Marine Corps on June 19, 1920, Secretary Daniels of the Navy remarked that he was not only regarded as "one of the ablest officers of the American military forces, but one of the most distinguished soldiers of the World War."

Big Engagements

As commander of the Second Division, composed of Marine and Regular Army regiments, General LeJeune led his forces in numerous important engagements, including St. Mihiel, Mont Blanc Ridge, Champagne and the Meuse-Argonne. He was awarded the Army and Navy Distinguished Service Medals, Legion of Honor, ribbon and the French Croix de Guerre.

A descendant of the Acadians driven out of Nova Scotia by the English, General LeJeune was born on a plantation in Pointe Coupee Parish, Louisiana, January 10, 1867, the son of Ovide and Laura Archer LeJeune. After studying at Louisiana State University for three years, he entered the United States Naval Academy, where he was graduated in 1888.

Commended for Bravery

While still an ensign he was commended for his bravery in rescuing comrades in the wreck of the warship Vandalia in a hurricane at Apia, Samoa, in March, 1889. The next year he became a Marine officer and thereafter steadily built up his reputation as a leader in the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection and during the trouble with Mexico at Vera Cruz in 1914.

Although not of retirement age, General LeJeune retired voluntarily in 1929 to become superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute.

On October 23, 1893, the general married Ellie Harrison Murchison of Portsmouth, Va. They had three daughters.

General LeJeune's thorough training in Army and Navy practices proved of immense value to Congress in preparing legislation when the United States entered the war. His familiarity with military needs resulted in many of his suggestions regarding mobilizing men and materials being adopted.

Known to his men as "The Old Indian," the general possessed an Indian blood. In action on the field, however, his stoical demeanor was like that of the sturdy, unfurling but quick-acting Choctaw warriors who formerly roamed the Louisiana glades of his childhood.

While he demanded strict obedience of his men, he encouraged individual initiative so that they could learn to do what he termed was "instinctively right" under unusual and dangerous circumstances. His strategy in commanding the Second Division in the World War was based largely on two principles—to exercise the element of surprise and to "remain cool, calm and collected under all circumstances".

As a young officer in the Spanish-American war, when commander of the Marine detachment on the cruiser Cincinnati, General LeJeune was commended for bravery in an attack on Matanzas, and for leading a landing party that rescued a force beleaguered by the enemy in the light house at San Juan Point, Porto Rico.

After commanding Marines in Panama during the rebellion against Colombia and in the Philippine insurrection, General LeJeune attended the Army War College from which he was graduated in 1910 with the highest honors. Trouble in Cuba in 1912 and 1913 found him leading the troops there, and in 1914 he headed the first landing party at Vera Cruz during the controversy with Mexico.

Named by Wilson

Having served as assistant to the commander of the Marine Corps at Washington from 1915, General LeJeune in September, 1917, was appointed commander of the Marine barracks at Quantico, Va., and there organized the Marines for overseas operations. Soon after arriving in France in the spring of 1918, he commanded a brigade in the 32nd division in a major action. He spoke French fluently and was made commander of a French brigade in the front lines.

Shortly thereafter he was sent to the Second Division for the Soissons offensive and later succeeded to the post of division commander. He remained in command until the division was withdrawn from the Army of Occupation on the Rhine in August, 1919.

General LeJeune returned from Europe to command the Marine base at Quantico, but was appointed commander of the Marine Corps by President Wilson in 1920. He was retained in that post by President Harding and reappointed by President Coolidge for four years.

Fair Enough by WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 20.—You probably know that Thurman Arnold recently went into the U. S. District court in Chicago to demand that Jimmy Pettillo, the president of the musicians' union, lift his embargo on canned music as discouraged horribly by the juke boxes of the nation and on the transcribed radio music, most of which is just as bad, and was knocked for a loop by Federal Judge Barnes, who said that under the laws and the Supreme court's decisions Jimmy was within his rights. Pettillo, who comes from the alleys of Chicago, probably was astonished to hear this for his action was very high-handed and he is not very well up on the law of long-words, himself. He runs his union by ear and his mind runs back to boyhood experiences in which he generally found himself behind the eight-ball. He formed an early impression that the law would be against him in any conceivable tangle.

Pettillo's first experience left him with a fear which lasted for several years that he was a fugitive from justice subject to arrest on sight and a long term in the Pontiac reformatory. When he was nine years old, his father, who was an Italian immigrant and an earnest sewer digger, applied to his alderman on the north side of Chicago for a job for his boy, Jimmy. The elder Pettillo was a member of the alderman's organization as, indeed, even a poor sewer digger had to be to obtain a job of humble toil with the city of Chicago.

The alderman got Jimmy a job as train-butcher on a local running out of Canal street long before the Union station was built, and James reported early in the mornings for his first run. They gave him a uniform cap that came down over his ears and face like a bucket and had to be wadded with paper to improve the fit, and he was very proud of the big brass badge across the front, which made him an official, like the conductor. His store of goods was in the baggage car, locked in a little trunk, and he was given a wicker basket from which to peddle his peanuts, crackerjack, chocolate almonds and figs.

James sat in the baggage car all the way to the end of the run and all the way back to Chicago and his heart filled with discouragement as the hours went on and nobody came to buy. Neither the conductor nor the brakeman thought to tell him that he was supposed to fill his basket and hustle the train and, as he sat there, temptation got him down and he sailed into his store of peanuts, crackerjack, chocolate almonds and figs.

Arriving back in Chicago at night, he lugged his little trunk and the basket to the commissary of the company which owned the concession, and the boss unlocked the trunk, ran up a quick inventory and said to Jimmy: "All right, give me $1.85."

"What for?" Jimmy cried. "I ain't got $1.85. I ain't got nothin'."

At that it dawned on him that he was in debt $1.85 for his own high-living and, with fear driving, he darted past the checker, out the door and away through the alleys in the dark.

Next, James got a job in the shipping department of a wholesale clothing company, in which he was supposed to write the names of various cities, such as Rochester and Los Angeles on the bills. He couldn't spell Rochester or Los Angeles but he could spell Chicago and another terrible moment befell when there was a discrepancy of thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise and he was suspected of a plot to steal the same with outside confederates.

Sensing that something was wrong, James whispered to another young man to throw his coat and cap out the window of the tenth story loft, and he slipped down and into the alley. His coat and cap came down but the coat stayed there and the cap blew onto a nearby roof and James came a hunted man again.

Recently, in a conference with some radio employers, one of them said to President Pettillo, "No, Jimmy, don't get dogmatic about this," and Jimmy said, "What you mean dogmatic? What is dogmatic?"

"It means don't be pushing around all the time," the man said. "That is what it means."

Pettillo insists that he is least dogmatic union leader the United States but his encounter with the word was timely; it came just before his troupe with Arnold.

"He got dogmatic with that is what he did," Pettillo maintains. "He tried to push around and the law says you be dogmatic with unions, not any more."

The marriage of Miss Ethel Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larson of the Red Oak community, to Burnham Grossman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Grossman of Ohio, took place Thursday, November 12 at the parsonage of St. John's Methodist church in Peoria, the Rev. Whittaker performing the single ring ceremony. The couple was attended by Miss Irene Larson of Peoria, sister of the bride and Pfc. Leslie Oberschelp of Camp Barkley, Tex., friend of the groom.

The bride wore almond green crepe with black accessories, and the bridesmaid wore beige crepe with brown accessories. The bride wore an orchid corsage and her attendant wore one of yellow and brown baby point shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Grossman will reside north of Ohio, where the groom has been engaged in farming.

The members of the Dodge community club met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lee Burkey, who was assisted by her daughter, Grace. A short business meeting was in charge of Mrs. Harold Foss and 18 members answered roll call with a thought for Thanksgiving. New officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Orvell White; vice president, Mrs. Garfield Whittaker; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harold Foss. An afternoon of games was in charge of Mrs. Carl Haas and Mrs. Roy Smith. Guests of the club were Mrs. Marion Borop and Mrs. Aurel Burkey.

Mrs. George Wolfe and Mrs. L. G. Carpenter were hostesses to the members of the Normandy club on Wednesday afternoon at the Wolfe home in Normandy. The songs, "America" and "America, the Beautiful," opened the meeting, which was in charge of Mrs. Elmer Wright. Fourteen members answered roll call with "What I Have to Be Thankful for This Year." New officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Arthur Callentine; vice president, Mrs. Lloyd Christensen; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Herman Nelson. Games furnished recreation for the group and delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. Lester Watkins and Mrs. Ed Peterson were club guests.

Mrs. Vernon Hoffman and Mrs. Frank Anderson were hostesses to the members of the Hamilton club on Wednesday afternoon at the Hoffman home, the meeting in charge of Mrs. Harry Magnusson opening with the flag salute and the song, "God Bless America." "Thoughts for the Day," was the roll call. The group decided to send gifts to sons and members who are in the service and $1 to the radio Good Neighbor Fund. New officers were elected with Mrs. Loren Hoge being elected president; Mrs. Russell Brandenburg, vice president; Mrs. Harold Hedgepeth, secretary, and Mrs. Harry Magnusson, treasurer.

During the social hour bunco was played at five tables, Mrs. Effie Forrest winning high score prize and Miss Emma Dimmig, consolation. Mrs. Carl Martinson and Mrs. William Schaff received pollyanna gifts. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Lowell Dietz and Miss Emma Dimmig were club guests.

Twenty-three members and two guests, Miss Verna Lange and Mrs. Henry Baumgartner attended the meeting of the Dad Joe Household club on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Heaton, whose co-hostess was Mrs. Cecil Heaton. The meeting opened with the song, "There's a Long, Long Trail Awaiting," by the club members, and the president, Mrs. Ernest Morden, read the commandments for club members and the club creed. Roll call was answered by giving dishes which would serve as a meat substitute for meat. Mrs. Floss Bacon, who was the delegate to the Bureau County Farmer's Institute, gave a very interesting report of the various sessions.

The following program was in charge of Mrs. Albert Guither and Mrs. Alvin Birkey. Reading, "Thanksgiving Day," Mrs. Ben Guither; reading, "Why Thanksgiving this Year?" Mrs. Anna Erbes; article, "Coffee," Miss Carrie Hammerle; poem, "Up to the Sky," Miss Viona Kruse; article, "Old Time Petricots," Mrs. Harriet Albrecht, reading, "The Pilot Sounds," Mrs. Cora Barkman. A plant was presented to the hostess, Mrs. Frank Heaton and refreshments were served following a social hour.

Mrs. Clarence Fisher was hostess to her bridge club on Wednesday afternoon, three tables playing. High score prize was won by Mrs. Ava Heclrin and consolation by Mrs. Mabel Sergeant.

Mrs. L. H. Glaze was hostess to the Suiteus club on Wednesday afternoon, two tables playing and high score prize being won by Mrs. Ben Kruse. Mrs. E. A. Splain was a club guest.

The Farm Home club met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elsie Naffziger, with Mrs. Mattie Naffziger, Mrs. Delight Sash and Miss Nannie Lee Krone as hostesses to 24 members and two guests, Mrs. Anton Akerson of Princeton and Mrs. Emma Utts of Detroit. "What I Have to Be Thankful For," was the timely roll call, during the business session conducted by Mrs. Lester Schultz.

State Maintenance Forces Prepared to Keep Routes Open

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 20—Despite wartime restrictions which curtailed replacement of worn-out equipment, the state's road maintenance forces are prepared to keep its 14,000-mile primary highway system open at all times throughout the winter season, Governor Dwight H. Green was informed today by Major Walter A. Rosenfield, director of Public Works and Buildings.

As a result of a program of rehabilitating used machinery, which has been going forward for the last several months, a total of approximately 1,000 snow plows, graders, tractors and trucks will be available to clear the highways in record time following storms, Mr. Rosenfield said. There is also on hand a supply of some 500 carloads of cinders, sand and other abrasives for snow and ice removal.

Install Snow Fences
Road crews, within the last few days, have completed installation of 300 miles of snow fences at points where maximum drifting is likely to occur, and rights-of-way along pavements have been entirely cleared of weeds and other growth which aggravate winter blockading of the highways.

In accordance with instructions from Governor Green, Director Rosenfield stated, maintenance crews will be concentrated during the winter season to provide speedy service in keeping passable all Illinois roads giving access to munitions works and industrial plants engaged in war production. For the benefit of motorists and truckers, the highway division also has completed arrangements for resuming its daily bulletins on road conditions with the advent of winter weather. A 24-hour schedule will be maintained at the ten highway district offices. Reports, to be issued several times daily, will be as complete as wartime censorship permits.

The group decided not to meet again until next February, owing to gas rationing and the wide spread homes of members.

For a program, Thanksgiving Day poems were given by Mrs. Floyd Utts and Mrs. Laura Tonnaw, Armistice Day poems by Mrs. Herman Madsen and Mrs. Mattie Naffziger and a reading, "The Mother of Thanksgiving," by Mrs. Edythe Zehr. A report of the Bureau county Farmer's Institute was given by Mrs. Ferris Paden. Refreshments were served.

The Past Noble Grands and their families of the Robekah lodge held their last meeting until after the duration Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows in New Bedford. A chicken supper was served and games were played. Records were played that were made by one of the Walnut soldiers, Donald Renner. Prizes in games were won by Mrs. John Dale and Mrs. Tom Conley and children's prizes by Joan Hewitt and Marion Conley. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnson of Tampico; Mr. and Mrs. Omer Morgan and Alice of West Bureau, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews, Mrs. Teresa Lathrop, Mr. and Mrs. John Dale and Merle, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayden and Bonnie, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hewitt, John and Charles, Mrs. Anna Conley and Marion. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wright, Miss Mable Whipple, Mrs. James F. Johnson and daughter, and Mrs. James Hartz and daughter, Donna.

The Cub Scouts of Pack 26, Dens 1, 2, and 3, their parents, Cub master, Den mothers, and Den chiefs, about 60 in number in all met in the Methodist church basement on Wednesday evening, Nov. 18 at 6:30 for a pot luck supper. The tables were set in horseshoe shape and decorated in patriotic colors. After a delicious supper the following program was given:

Invocation, Rev. L. A. Weinrich; "Cub Welcome," by the Cubs in unison to Mr. Humphrey, the new Scout executive of LaSalle; song, "Cub Days," and "Yankee Doodle," by Cubs; Cub oath, "We're Gonna Be a Scout Someday," by Mr. Humphrey, who also presented pins and arrows to the following Cubs, Billy Hamm, wolf pin; Frederick Schoaf, Wolf silver arrow; Donald Larson, Bear pin; Jackie Abraham, Lion pin; Ellsworth Kelly, Lion gold pin and silver arrow; Donald Hopkins, Lion pin and gold arrow.

The song, "Jingle Bells," and "Till We Meet Again," by the Cubs, "God Bless America," by the whole group and benediction by Rev. Hallock closed the evening. A large table held a display of things made by the Cubs including handicraft, woodwork, basketry.

War Correspondent To Visit Dixon for Lecture Dec. 2nd

Virgil Pinkley, U. P., Has Covered More Fronts Than Any Other

Since the outbreak of World War II, Virgil Pinkley, United Press European manager, who will speak at the Loveland Community House here Wednesday, Dec. 2, has covered more fighting fronts than any other American correspondent.

He has just returned home after completing a 10 months, 68,000 mile news-gathering trip which carried him around the world and in the course of which he visited 22 countries either involved in or vitally affected by the war.

During the past three years, Pinkley estimates that he has traveled more than 175,000 miles and has visited 43 countries, covering assignments, inspecting coverage and transmission facilities and opening new bureaus for United Press.

In the course of his latest globe-girdling tour Pinkley visited Hawaii, the Philippines, Guam, Midway, Singapore. He spent six weeks in India where he interviewed many Indian leaders. He visited Iran, Iraq and spent three weeks in Palestine. Pinkley arrived in Libya at the start of the British drive last fall and spent several weeks at the front and in Cairo from where he directed the United Press staff which once more is covering vital desert action.

During his assignment to the Libyan front Pinkley twice had narrow escapes from serious injury. Once a machine-gun bullet from a dive-bombing German plane cut through his muffler and grazed his neck, inflicting a slight flesh wound. On another occasion, as he dived into a fox hole, an exploding shell from an axis aerial cannon drove a piece of shrapnel through his shoe. The toe and sole of the shoe were cut through and the shrapnel passed between his big and second toes without injuring him.

In Planes, Armored Cars

He has flown with British pilots bent on the grim mission of strafing Italian and German positions in the desert and has toured the advance fighting positions in armored cars.

Since leaving Libya, Pinkley has visited the Union of South Africa, where he supervised the inauguration of United Press service to the 29 newspapers of the South African Press Association.

For the past several months he has been in Britain from where he filed a series of dispatches analyzing war trends, covered the German reprisal bombings of Bath and Canterbury and surveyed the progress of British production, air power and general fighting strength since he last visited the British Isles 18 months earlier.

The newspaper career of this 35-year-old "young veteran" of the United Press began in 1924 when he was attending San Bernardino, Calif., high school. During that period he corresponded for southern California newspapers. He spent his high school and summer vacations working on newspapers and, after being graduated from the University of Southern California, worked his way to Europe on a lumber boat in 1929.

Pinkley joined the United Press London staff that same year. He was there at the time of the fall of the second British Labor government, election of the first National government and Britain's departure from the gold standard.

Later in 1931 Pinkley was transferred to Washington for a year and a half. There he covered such key runs as the Treasury and Justice departments. He also worked on the story of the founding of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, arrival and evacuation of the bonus army and the first election and inauguration of President Roosevelt.

Covered Olympic Games

After a series of domestic assignments in bureaus in California, and Oregon, Pinkley went to Rome. He was on hand for the outbreak of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict. Later he covered the 1936 Olympic games in Germany and from there went to London.

While in London Pinkley broke the story of the Hoover moratorium, on which the United Press scored a noteworthy beat. And from Rome he correctly forecast the Italian invasion of Ethiopia.

Very shortly thereafter, he was transferred to the United Press headquarters in New York, arriving in time to work on the story of the abdication of Edward VII of Great Britain, again via trans-Atlantic telephone from the House of Commons.

Pinkley returned to London late in 1937 and travelled throughout Europe continuously, covering approximately 40,000 miles a year until the outbreak of war in 1939. Soon after Italy entered the war, Pinkley organized a relay pool for clearance of news from continental Europe through Zurich, Switzerland. For six months Pinkley "city edited" news from all continental Europe from that vantage point.

Prior to the active entry of the United States into the war Pinkley had visited virtually every warring nation of Europe, including the axis powers.

In addition to being an outstanding news executive and reporter, Pinkley is an accomplished speaker. Last year, during a brief visit to the United States he spoke to audiences totaling more than 40,000 people in a series of appearances in principal cities from coast to coast and his account of his personal experiences covering war were carried to additional thousands by radio.

Everywhere his audiences were impressed by the thorough knowledge and understanding he displays of the nations at war, both enemy powers and the United Nations. He approaches his subject simply and directly but with the ring of authenticity which comes of having seen at first hand the things of which he talks.

Treasury Will Collect Every Dime Due Under New Wartime Tax Law

Washington, Nov. 20 —(AP)—The treasury department plans to collect every possible dime due it under the new wartime tax law, but it doesn't intend to turn into a Shylock in the process, Assistant Secretary John L. Sullivan, said Thursday.

Sullivan said that improvident people who fail to plan in advance for their taxes will have to pay eventually—probably on a periodic payment basis.

He told an impromptu press conference that internal revenue bureau collectors would be glad to work out paying arrangements with persons who, due to some unforeseen circumstance, were unable to pay their full tax bills on the dot.

The assistant secretary urged all persons financially able to pay their taxes in a lump sum whenever possible, without relying on the "installment plan," and said he hoped many of the payments would come in before the March deadline.

Rules on Driving Not to Be Changed

Washington, Nov. 20 —(AP)—The Office of Price Administration decided officially today that the rules on pleasure and business driving will not be changed in spite of the reduction, effective Sunday, in the value of "A" gasoline ration coupons in the east from four to three gallons each.

After meeting of ranking officials, a spokesman said the rules are these:

1. Holders of "A" gasoline books may use their rations for any purpose they choose.
2. Holders of "B" and "C" books may use 90 miles per month of their driving for "other purposes" but must use all the remaining mileage permitted by their gasoline ration for "occupational driving."

Curtain Comes Down on Flatbush Follies—Take Off on Baseball

By JUDSON BAILEY
New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The curtain has come down on the best burlesque in town—the take-off on baseball known as the Flatbush Follies, or the life and good times of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Branch Rickey, the new president of the Beloved Bums, announced yesterday that Leo Durocher had signed a contract to manage the Dodgers for his fifth season, but made it amply clear that things would be different around Ebbets field next year.

Gambling will be gone. Coach Charley Dressen will be gone and with him, presumably, some of the furious feuds that club has waged with all its rivals in the National league. Coach Fred Fitzsimmons probably will be gone. Perhaps to Montreal as manager and possible heir to Durocher's throne.

Rickey said Durocher would be manager but would be signed to a player's contract, not a manager's. One of the advantages to the club of this will be that he can be released on ten days' notice without the Dodgers having to pay his salary for a full season. The amount of his salary was not disclosed, but Rickey said he was hired for one year without any bonus provisions. Last season Durocher's contract was understood to have called for $23,500 plus bonuses.

The ban on gambling for high stakes was disclosed by Durocher when questioned about reports that this had been a harmful influence on the Dodgers last season.

"I think we were gambling too much. I won't say it wasn't harmful, but we never had any ill feelings because of it. There will be no gambling this year—for stakes higher than 15 cents," he said.

Latter Beats National Tea 3 in a Row

Former Blasts Runnerup Sparky's Fenders; James Wins

TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE

MAJOR LEAGUE
Friday 7 p. m.
Reynolds Wire—Freeman Shoes
Sunnybrook—Hub Tavern
Dixon Paint—The Hunter Co.

The head that wears the crown—viz. National Tea—does not rest easily this morning. Up until last night the Tea keepers had the Commercial league race all to themselves, but now they find their security threatened by Dixon Hatchery and Myers & Nolan.

The hatchery outfit scooped at National Tea's reputation last night and proceeded to blast the leaders, 3-0. While this upset was being pulled off in one alley, Myers & Nolan was going about the business of winning three from runnerup Sparky's Fenders in another. That put the clothing boys and the hatchery crew in a tie for second, only two games back of the pace-setter.

The Round-Up tied the Stables for fifth by sweeping its series with the Dixon Telegraph. The Stables lost two to Reynolds Wire, whose number one shooter, Becker, set a new individual game record, 256 in his second set.

In a postponed Classic league match, James won three from Country Club Beer. That gives the James outfit a 16-14 standing while Country club has a 15-15.

Midwest Circuit Opens Meeting

Chicago, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Officers of the Midwest Conference opened a two-day meeting today with the main discussion centering on a proposal, which had been tabled at two earlier meetings, of permitting freshmen to participate in varsity athletics.

Possibility of curtailing spring sports and making changes in the basketball schedule, which already is drawn up, in view of transportation problems also will receive attention.

All Prophet—No Loss

Fordham Coach Is First Not to Rave About Boston College

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

New York, Nov. 20.—Adjectives are being tossed all over the place in connection with Boston College's mammoth victory.

Earl Walsh, veteran Fordham coach, is the first man who has returned from the current Boston T party without saying that the Eagles should be tossed right in there with the Chicago Bears. And Walsh has every right to rave. Mike Holovak & Co. rammed his Rams, 56-6.

"Boston College is good, but it is not the best in the land or the finest college team I've ever seen, as some of the boys have been saying," asserts Walsh. "They are not 50 points better than we are. Any football man knows that any average college team is not 50 points better than another. They beat us 50 points because they wanted to play football and we didn't."

Walsh frankly tells you that Fordham boys who played well last fall under Sleepy Jim Crowley are not doing anything for him. He traces the trouble to his being too easy-going with them.

Played Light Schedule

Getting back to Boston College, the Eagles haven't exactly knocked down gridiron giants to build their wide reputation. There are much more imposing schedules than one composed of West Virginia, Clemson, North Carolina Pre-Flight, Wake Forest, Georgetown, Temple, Fordham, Boston University and Holy Cross.

It's really too bad Boston College can't be tossed in with one of those midwestern juggernauts—preferably Minnesota, Michigan or Ohio State.

I'd like to see how the Eagles would go against Frankie Sinkwich's Georgia outfit or Georgia Tech with Castleberry's running. Plaster's bucking and Propok's passing, Tulsa would be another good opponent.

Denny Myers, its coach, declares Boston College has a mobile offense with 300 running plays and the same number of passes. He adds that it is the type of team a coach can throw a ball to and just sit back and enjoy himself thoroughly relaxed.

It would be interesting to see how comfortable Denny Myers would be on the bench with his aggregation deployed against Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio State, Georgia, Georgia Tech or Tulsa.

Perhaps we'll get some kind of answer in the Sugar Bowl.

Johnson Added to All-Star Five

Chicago, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Arnold Johnson, six foot, five inch basketball star of the Bemidji, Minn., state teachers college, today was added to the College All Star basketball squad which will meet the Oshkosh world's professional champions Nov. 27 in Chicago stadium.

He was moved up from the alternates selected by a committee of sports writers and coaches when three men on the list reported they would be unable to obtain furloughs from the Great Lakes naval training station. The three are Bob Davies of Seton Hall, Chet Aubuchon of Michigan State and George Sobek of Notre Dame.

SALICA-ORTIZ JAN. 1

New York, Nov. 20.—Lou Salica of New York and Manuel Ortiz of Los Angeles will box 15 rounds in Mexico City, Jan. 1, for a clear claim to the world bantamweight championship.

The Christmas Seal campaign is one of the oldest health drives in the country, having started in 1907.

Wildcats Try to Salvage a Bit of Empire

Northwestern Needs Win to Retain Prestige in Midwest

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Northwestern, shutout in Western Conference competition for the first time in 19 years, tries to salvage some pieces of a collegiate football empire Saturday with a victory over Notre Dame.

Many grid guessers figure the outcome a toss-up, despite Northwestern's record of only one win (a 3-0 verdict over Texas) and seven losses, including consecutive conference defeats by Purdue, Michigan, Ohio State, Minnesota, Illinois and Wisconsin—the darkest stretch in Lynn Waldorf's 18 years of coaching experience.

The last five Northwestern-Notre Dame games have been decided only by a touchdown margin or less, with the exception of Northwestern's 20 to 0 decision in 1940.

Passing Duel Expected

Saturday's meeting may develop into one of the best passing duels of the season as the Wildcats' Otto Graham shoots it out with Angelo Bertelli, Graham, who has the remarkable record of leading the Western Conference in total offense although playing on a last-place team, has hit the target 66 out of 132 times for 837 yards. Bertelli has completed 51 of 119 for 735, a mark far below his 1941 showing and one he desperately hopes to improve in the remaining Irish contests.

The rival fullbacks, Notre Dame's Corwin Clatt and Northwestern's Ed "Buckets" Hirsch, lead their respective teams in rushing, each with a 3.9 average per carry.

Big Ten Program

Putting the microscope on Saturday's Big Ten program: Minnesota at Wisconsin—over a span of 20 years, Wisconsin's only wins from Minnesota have been at the expense of incoming Gopher coaches, which may, or may not, hold to the beam in the case of Dr. George Hauser... The series, starting in 1890, favors Minnesota with 31 wins and 15 losses with five ties being played.

Michigan at Ohio State—Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State tabs this one as "our toughest game of the season"... If the Buckeyes win, they will have a 5-1 rating in the standings and the Western Conference championship... A sell-out crowd of more than 70,000 is expected...

Sailors in Stride

Great Lakes at Illinois—The Bluejackets appear to have hit their stride, scoring 116 points while holding opponents to none in their last four games... Their ponderous line has limited nine opponents to a combined rushing average of only 82 yards per game...

Indiana at Purdue—A keen rivalry beginning in 1881 with Purdue holding a 24-15 victory edge and five games ending in stalemates... The old oaken bucket, cherished trophy of supremacy in Hoosierdom's annual game, has gone to the winner the last 17 years... Indiana has had it the last two.

The remainder of the midwestern schedule Saturday puts Nebraska at the Iowa Seahawks base and West Virginia at Michigan State. Camp Grant goes to Marquette Sunday.

Intangible to Play Role in Grid Classic

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—(AP)—That undefinable something known in sports as "an edge"—an intangible mental and physical sharpness—may decide the nation's top football classic between Michigan and Ohio State here tomorrow.

That was how close the two speedy, powerful Western Conference squads stacked up today as they rested for the encounter before some 80,000 fans.

Michigan had a keen "edge" last week in beating Notre Dame 32 to 20. If Michigan can key itself up again this week it may blast Ohio's conference championship hopes. If it cannot, look out! Ohio has pointed for this one all season, and a win gives the Bucks the Big Ten crown.

BETTER THAN HUBBEL

New York, Nov. 20.—Watching Sammy Baugh again, Steve Owen of the New York Giants remarks that the Washington Redskins' passer has as much control as Carl Hubbell and perhaps a better change of pace.

WOULD REPLAY GAME

New York, Nov. 20.—Brooklyn College's football team so dissatisfied with its 7-7 tie with City College of New York that it applied to both faculties to have the game replayed for the Red Cross.

ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Reading the papers: What may be one of the season's most significant news items—from the sports standpoint—was noted in an Oklahoma City paper the other day... It told of the University of Oklahoma regents discussing the conversion of the institution to a "war college" and contained a prediction by President Joseph A. Brandt that the change would take place within a few months.

Oklahoma is only one of a number of colleges that may go on a total war basis... While it's hard to tell what effect this would have on college sports programs, Oklahoma's plans call for turning the field house into a dormitory for 600 men.

Sammy Angott isn't the first lightweight champion to retire while wearing the crown... Way back in 1872 Abe Hicklen, the first recognized American lightweight titleholder, retired. So did his successors, Arthur Chambers, Jack McAuliffe and Benny Leonard. And Barney Ross gave up the title when he outgrew the class...

Principal business of the streamlined football coaches' convention next week will be to appoint a committee to find out what coaches can do to help in the war—which will be a blow to coaches who have been arguing that teaching kids to play football was helping in a big way... The Yanks' Ed Barrow says his vote at the major league baseball meeting will be in favor of increasing the player limit from 25 to 28 or 29 men... The hoarder!

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

George R. Farrar, Jr., Woonsocket (R. I.) Call: "Clark Shaughnessy came up with new shifts from the 'T' formation; Ossie Solem put a new wrinkle in the old 'Y' offensive backfield set-up, and other coaches have worked shifts with the lines, notably Dick Harlow at Harvard. But none has been able to duplicate the shift made by President Roosevelt when he "hiked" the Army-Navy game out of Philadelphia to Annapolis."

SEVERE DEPT.

When the Jacksonville (Fla.) naval air station plays the Pensacola fliers tomorrow, only four of Jacksonville's 1941 players will be on the squad. Most of the others are on sea duty... According to Maj. A. E. Meallif, public relations officer, Camp Grant (Ill.) will have a real standout basketball team this winter... Jimmy Lawrence, former Texas Christian U. football and baseball star, writes home from Australia that the army ball team he manages is (or was) in the running for the divisional championship.

Team, Individual Duels Expected

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Three-cornered battle for both team and individual titles in the fifth renewal of the national collegiate cross-country championships at Michigan State college tomorrow. A field of 50 schools and 140 individual runners is expected for the four-mile event.

Earl Mitchell, Indiana's Western Conference champion, is a slight favorite to succeed Frederick Walt, another Hoosier jogger, individual champion. His competition is expected to come from Oliver Hunter of Notre Dame and Leroy Schwartzkopf of Yale.

Team competition is expected to produce a spirited scrap among Rhode Island State, defending champion, Indiana's Western Conference title squad, and Penn State.

Illinois entries for the meet include: University of Illinois, seven men and Western Illinois, one.

Rudolph Mobley a Modest Chap

Abilene, Tex., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Rudolph "Little Doc" Mobley, the Hardin-Simmons back who has set a national record for ball-carrying, is a modest youngster.

Coach Warren Wooden asked Mobley if he wanted any tickets for the game with Texas Tech at Lubbock Saturday. Some of his friends probably would want to go.

Intimacy of Family Life Conducive To Shortcomings as Well as Goodness

Text: Exodus 2:1-4; Joshua 24:14, 15; Ephesians 5:28-31; 6:1-4

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

From the last lesson on things that mar family life it is with much satisfaction that one turns to this lesson on the motives that strengthen family life. It is far more pleasant and perhaps more effective to deal with fine and constructive things than to talk about shortcomings and sins. The motives that strengthen family life are the motives that strengthen personal and social life. But, just as we pointed out, there are particular problems and difficulties of family life that are more conducive to shortcomings than to goodness. These are the motives that strengthen family life. There is something about family life that invites one to be and the right attitude toward the home and toward the family.

The Scriptures in this lesson are drawn from wide and suggestive sources. The first passage tells of the birth of Moses and his concealment from the Egyptian king. The second passage from the Book of Joshua tells of crucial time in the life of Joshua, the successor of Moses, when the Israelites were discontented and leading ready to return to the fleshpots of Egypt. Out of that crisis comes a notable declaration which ought to have particular meaning for us in these days when our country is at war.

When Joshua heard the murmuring among the people, he met it realistically and courageously. "If it seem evil unto you," he said to the people, "to serve Jehovah, choose you this day whom ye will serve."

Evangelist

The Rev. Leonard Eilers, once a cowboy on the Laramie Plains, will speak at the West Side Congregational church each evening next week, beginning Monday, November 23, at 7:30 o'clock. He will be speaking at all of the services Sunday, November 29.

Eilers has been engaged in evangelistic preaching since 1932. Last year he traveled more than 25,000 miles to conduct extended evangelistic campaigns as well as engagements in schools and on the radio.

As a young man Mr. Eilers left his South Dakota home to become a cowboy. He worked for the Diamond ranch in southern Wyoming and for the Wine Cup outfit, whose range covers parts of Nevada, Utah, and Idaho.

The "Preachin' Cowboy," as Mr. Eilers calls himself, draws upon his experiences as a cowboy for much of his sermon illustrations and material. He plays the guitar and the harmonica, and demonstrates spiritual lessons and truths with his "educated ropes."

In 1922 Eilers quit the range for Hollywood, playing first in Western pictures and later advancing to an assistant directorship. This experience helped him in taking scenic films of the west, which he will show from time to time. His evangelistic campaigns are called, "Roundups for God."

He is the author of two books, "Go West, Young Man" and "Breaking Into the Movies."

Special Services in Churches Dec. 6 Council's Wish

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Councils of Defense were urged today by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, executive director of the Illinois State Council of Defense, to seek the cooperation of ministers in planning appropriate Pearl Harbor observances during church services on Sunday, Dec. 6.

Councils also were asked to cooperate with local school officials in planning commemorative exercises in public schools during Monday, Dec. 7, sessions, the anniversary of the treacherous Japanese attack on the United States. Gov. Green has proclaimed the day Pearl Harbor Day.

Illinois' 612 councils, Gen. Parker said, have been asked to hold Pearl Harbor Day programs during which residents of every community will take stock of their accomplishments during one year of war. The commemorative program will be climaxed by town meetings on the evening of Dec. 7 when councils will tune in a broadcast of the state council meeting in Chicago.

Gen. Parker suggested that mayors be asked to issue proclamations designating Dec. 7 as Pearl Harbor Day and appoint committees to arrange for patriotic demonstrations. The programs, he said, should review the community's contribution to the war effort; pay tribute to service men of the community; emphasize the need for further intensified effort; and re-dedicate the full resources, energies and will of the people.

He asked that veterans, fraternal, civic labor, women's professional, and other similar organizations be requested to cooperate in the program.

In proclaiming Pearl Harbor Day, Gov. Green, as chairman of the state council, called on the people of Illinois to observe the day, not as a birthday, but as a time of remembrance. "Let us," he said, "this day, remembering the American boys who have already made the supreme sacrifice, freshen our sense of duty and pledge ourselves anew to redouble our efforts in the great tasks that lie ahead."

Legion Reiterates Its Demand for Stern Policy

Indianapolis, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The American Legion has reiterated its demand for "a policy of stern and exact justice toward the aggressor nations" after the war, and says that America must assume the leadership in working out plans "for a concert of nations to guard the peace of the globe."

The legion's stand was outlined in a statement contained in the organization's foreign relations committee's report, which was adopted yesterday by the executive committee, the group's ruling body between national conventions.

Stating that the legion's history has demonstrated its "love of country, love of mankind, and love of peace," the report suggested that the president of the United States appoint "outstanding and representative members" of the legion to the peace council after the war.

Coffee Ration Already Comes to Fighting Man

Kansas City, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Coffee rationing already has come to the fighting man.

He's limited to 40 cups a month at the training camps and even the emergency ration kit he carries on the battlefields furnished him only one cup for three meals.

The quartermaster depot here, where more than half of the entire army's ration kits are packed, is adding two other drinks for the day—chocolate and lemon juice.

The amount of coffee handled at the quartermaster depots is restricted information, but officers say the distribution is in much smaller quantities.

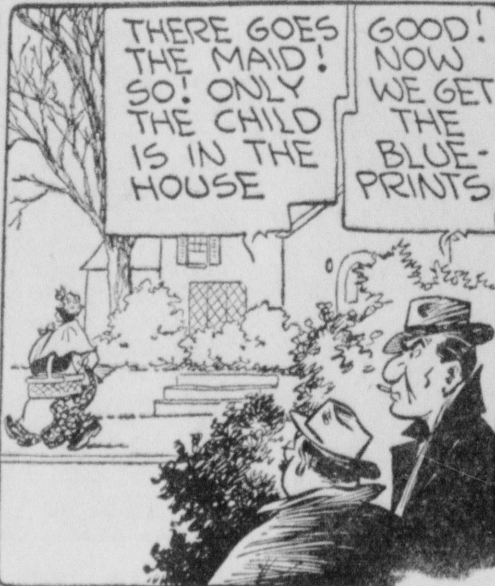

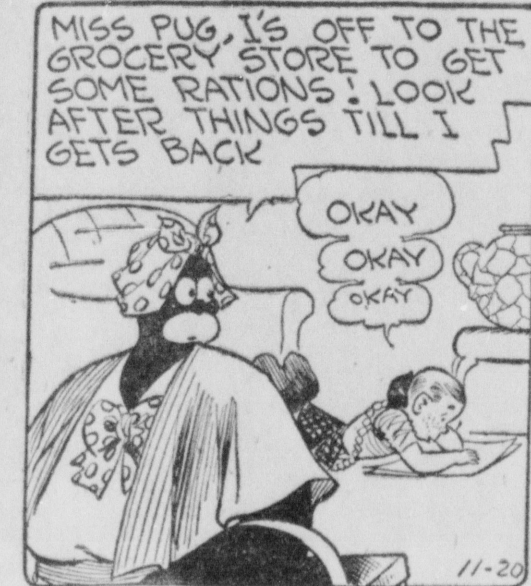

The quartermaster depot says army butter rations also have been reduced sharply. Tea supplies are being stretched by longer brewing.

Coffee rationing, the quartermaster depot reports, doesn't seem to bother the fighting men. The use of lemon and chocolate is appealing to young soldiers who are not coffee drinkers.

They'll Do It Every Time

~HIS PAUL'S WIFE HAD LEFT HIM. HE TRIED TO PATCH THINGS UP FOR HIM, BUT NO SOAP~

WON'T YOU GIVE HIM JUST ONE MORE CHANCE AND GO BACK TO HIM? I'M AFRAID HE'LL JUMP OFF THE BRIDGE OR SOMETHING, IF YOU DON'T.

IF HE DOES SO MUCH THE BETTER, I'M THROUGH WITH THE DISGUSTING LITTLE WORM FOREVER. I CAN'T STAND THE SIGHT OF HIM! I'M GOING TO DIVORCE HIM. THAT'S FINAL, PLEASE CLOSE THE DOOR AS YOU GO OUT!

SO—THAT NIGHT HE DROPPED AROUND TO CONSOLE THE POOR GUY —

IT WAS ALL MY FAULT, PRECIOUS, I'M SO SORRY.

NO, SUGAR, DIE. IT WAS MY FAULT. I WAS A BRUTE. FORGIVE ME.

There were rivers to cross but there were no bridges. Roads were hardly more than paths. Travel was difficult and dangerous in the America of 200 years ago. But Henry Melchior Muhlenberg said: "The church must be planted." This Sunday we celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the arrival of this Muhlenberg in America. For forty-five years he labored. Let us come and honor him. The church services begin at 11 a. m. Special music by our choir. Visitors are always welcome.

Sterling Electors Defeat Bond Issue for Costly Airport

Sterling voters rejected a proposal to construct and maintain a municipal airport by a vote 1,589 to 1,527.

Two of the city's four wards favored the proposal but the gain of "no" votes in the wards resulted in the proposition's defeat.

The vote by precincts: First 358 no, 242 yes; second, 706 615 yes; third, 161 no, 204 and fourth, 364 no, 466 yes.

The proposal would have authorized the park board to bonds totaling $80,000 to chase the necessary land, building, maintenance and testing of the property, acquisition of real estate to be used as a site for a new airport, consisting of about 500 acres at McCue's corners, a mile of Sterling and north of the coin highway.

Many workers in plants unable to vote in the election the polls were open only from a. m. to 5 p. m.

Negro Who Attacked Girl to Die in Cl

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Death in the electric chair January 4 has been ordered for John Henry Swan, six-foot Negro who battered 20-year-old Gizzella Mary Forepough death with his fists in the house where he was a porter.

Swan was convicted of murder and sentenced Wednesday on own admission that he had killed the pretty, slightly girl into the lounge, pummeled in the women's room, dragged backstage and stripped her of clothing behind the scenes while 500 persons watched picture on its other side.
